Committees play an important role at the BMA. They represent members’ views across branches of practice, specialisms, and professional activities and provide expert views and opinions to shape our strategies and policies.

2019-20
The BMA can only function with the contributions of those members who seek election as representatives. Thank you for making the commitment to help represent your colleagues. In order that elected BMA representatives can work together effectively the following principles are important.

- When you are speaking to or communicating in the broadcast, print or social media as an elected BMA representative, or are identified as such, you should honestly represent the views of the BMA.
- When speaking in a personal capacity you should explicitly ask not to be identified as an elected BMA representative.
- Committee officers should coordinate media engagements with the press office.
- You should declare conflicts of interest to your committee chair/committee secretary as appropriate.
- You should uphold the confidentiality of your committee when requested. If in doubt, ask the chair of committee.
- As a member of the medical profession and as an elected representative, you should behave in a professional manner at all times. Robust debate is sometimes essential in forming policy, but you should always treat patients, colleagues and staff with respect. If you have a concern, raise it straight away with the chair of committee or with the committee secretary.

In standing for election you agree to uphold these principles as set out above. The information that you provide to the BMA will be processed in accordance with the data protection principles as set out in the General Data Protection Regulation and the UK Data Protection Act 2018.
The Patient Liaison Group (PLG)

About the committee

Remit, subcommittees and where it sits in the BMA structure

The BMA believes that the views of patients and the public are of critical importance to the BMA. The BMA promotes the delivery of the highest quality, patient-centred services in UK healthcare, and works to improve the health expectation and experience of individuals and of the UK population in general.

The PLG was established by BMA council, with its inaugural meeting in May 2004. Since then the group continues to work alongside other BMA committees to progress matters on behalf of patients. This is a two-way exchange of information working within the existing organisational structure to the benefit of both the BMA and patients. The PLG feeds into other committees via consultations, and inputs to committees and BMA council with patient-informed views.

You can find out more about the PLG on the BMA website bma.org.uk

Remit of the committee

The PLG is an internal reference group within the BMA. It provides patients’ perspectives on matters of interest to patients and the profession. Working with other BMA committees, the PLG contributes to a dynamic exchange of information and appraisal to ensure that patient perspectives constructively inform BMA policies.

PLG members come from a range of backgrounds and draw on their knowledge and experience as patients, carers, advocates or professionals working in a range of health-related fields.

The PLG members are here to:

– act as a critical friend on issues that concern patients
– initiate constructive and robust challenges to decision making and policy development
– ensure BMA policy development processes and related activities include patients’ perspectives, interests, and concerns
– help the BMA understand how its decisions will impact on patients and carers and raise awareness of the needs of all patient groups, especially the vulnerable and disadvantaged.
The PLG is composed of:

- 11 appointed patient/carer (‘lay’) representatives
- Five doctor members, including:
  - BMA council chair
  - three members elected by council
  - one appointed member who shall not have served on the UK or a national council or a UK standing committee, board or other BMA UK representative group in the preceding two years or be a candidate for election to such groups.

Lay members of the PLG can normally serve for a maximum term of five years, with re-appointment on a yearly basis. Lay members who have served a maximum term of five years on the PLG would not normally be eligible for re-appointment or co-option after this term. The only exception would occur when a lay member was elected as PLG chair in his/her fifth year on the committee. In these circumstances, the individual concerned would be able to serve a two-year term as chair.

Three doctor representatives, not necessarily members of council, are elected by council to serve a term of three years. They may stand for re-election for a further term of three years.

The doctor member who has not served previously on BMA UK committees may serve on the PLG for a maximum term of five years: an initial term of three years and re-appointment for one year on two further occasions. This doctor member is appointed by a panel of three comprising the chair, deputy chair and one ordinary member, with a ratio of two lay members to one doctor.
Your role as a committee member

PLG lay members are expected to:
- attend three whole-day PLG meetings per session
- advise on matters of BMA policy from the perspective of patients, carers and the public
- contribute to BMA work areas and consultation responses on matters requiring a patient perspective
- put forward matters for consideration with regard to future BMA policy development e.g. submit a Motion to ARM
- be a PLG representative on another BMA committee to provide liaison – this is voluntary and there are limited places – it involves attending up to four extra meetings per year and contributing to discussions on that committee’s listserver
- promote the work of the PLG
- support the PLG lead (senior policy advisor) and other BMA executive and support staff in relation to the PLG’s work by responding to requests for information, for example, in a timely fashion
- volunteer to be a PLG rep on your Regional Council, if there is a vacancy in your geographical location;
- volunteer to attend meetings of external organisations on behalf of BMA PLG, if relevant to our work;
- consider writing a blog for the BMA website e.g. for Self-Care week in the autumn.
- you should uphold the confidentiality of your committee at all times. As a member of the medical profession and as an elected representative, you should behave in a professional manner at all times. You should always treat patients, colleagues and staff with respect. If you have a concern, raise it straight away with the chair of committee or with the committee secretary.
Roles of other committee members

Chair

The chair is elected for a one-year term. The chair plays a pivotal role within the Patient liaison group. During the meeting, he/she is responsible for:

- Abide by the BMA behaviour principles and code of conduct
- Ensure effective working relationships between the officers and members
- Promote and ensure compliance with data protection legislation and confidentiality
- To ensure committee members are aware of their responsibilities in this area, monitor compliance and address any issues that may arise
- Work in partnership with the BMA secretariat and staff
- Facilitate change and address conflict within the committee/council
- Act as figurehead and spokesperson as appropriate
- Represent the BMA and the committee/council and the specialty/grade in discussions with stakeholders
- Keep up to date with developments
- Review committee/council governance, performance and skills
- Facilitate succession planning
- Plan, set the agenda and prepare for meetings with others as appropriate
- Run meetings in accordance with governance guidance and BMA policy
- Ensure matters are dealt with in an efficient and orderly manner
- Bring impartiality and objectivity to meetings and decision making
- Maintain order during meetings, establish a finish time and prioritise items for discussion
- Ensure a fair and balanced discussion, giving every member an opportunity to contribute – including visitors as appropriate
- Aim to reach collective decisions and agreed action points, summarising these for members at the end of each agenda item and at the end of the meeting
- Ensure notes of meetings are accurate and timely and actions are taken and reported
- Ensure that regular reports to BMA council reflect the committees’ work and position
- Encourage members to contribute to consultation responses
Your committee – Patient liaison group

– Contribute to and help guide list server discussions
– Take action as necessary, and in consultation as appropriate, and make decisions on behalf of the committee between meetings
– Mentor less experienced committee/council members

The chair will also take action and make decisions on behalf of the PLG between meetings.

Deputy chair
The PLG deputy chair is elected for one-year term. This usually occurs via an electronic ballot over the summer period or at the first meeting of the session. The deputy chair supports the work of the chair of the committee throughout the year and may be required to stand in for the chair as the need arises.

Co-optees
Co-optees can be BMA members or non-members and are selected on the basis of providing broad experience on patient related issues or to support a specific project.

Voting rights
All elected and appointed members may speak and vote on all matters considered by the group including the election of its officers and representatives to other bodies. A deputy member of the group assumes the same rights as the full member he or she is replacing, whereas observers and others invited to meetings do not have voting rights.

Code of Conduct
Members are required to familiarise themselves with the BMA’s constitution as set out in the memorandum and articles of association and bye-laws of the Association. The code of conduct provides guidance on expected behaviour and sets out the standards of conduct that support BMA’s values in the work it does. (https://www.bma.org.uk/collective-voice/committees/committee-policies/bma-code-of-conduct)
Our values
Values are at the heart of an organisation and help to distinguish it from others. They guide an organisation’s conduct, and its relationship with its stakeholders and the outside world. They guide us in our thinking and our actions, and enable us to set standards of behaviour against which we can assess ourselves. The BMA values underpin policies, objectives, procedures and strategies and provide an anchor and reference point for all things that happen, and express how we look, speak and act.

Our behaviours
We have taken the BMA’s values – expert, leading, challenging, committed and reliable – and with your help, turned them into behaviours to provide clarity on what we expect from each other as we go about our work and provide a consistent approach for discussing behaviour. They describe what we expect of each other, and what we don’t, as well as what is considered above and beyond. Our behaviours form part of our culture change to become a better BMA. Our aim is to adopt them in all we do.

It is our responsibility as BMA members to role model and promote positive behaviours and to challenge poor behaviours.

Behaviour principles are:
- Be professional
- Respect others
- Be representative
- Be kind
- Be accountable

Members must act within the memorandum and articles of the Association and bye-laws of the BMA and to promote the success of the Association for the benefit of its members, and exercise reasonable care, skill and diligence in all their duties.

Attendance: Members should be able to allocate sufficient time to the Association to enable them to discharge their responsibilities effectively. Member role profiles provide further detail.

Personal conduct: Members are expected to maintain a high standard of personal conduct and to treat staff and other members with respect. In particular, members are required to promote and role model the behaviour principles outlined in this code of conduct. Doctors should display the same duty of care towards one another as they would towards patients and in the workplace.
Election behaviour: The BMA can only function with the contributions of those members who seek election as representatives. In order that elected representatives work together effectively, on standing for election, members agree to uphold the principles outlined in this code of conduct. Candidates will abide by electoral bylaws and respect other candidates. Members will not put undue pressure on other members, or staff to favour a particular candidate.

GDPR
The GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation) came into force from 25 May 2018. It introduced wide-ranging and significant changes to UK data protection legislation.

The BMA will be open and transparent when processing and using personal information by following 6 principles as set out in the new GDPR/DPA act:

Principle 1: Personal data shall be obtained and processed fairly, lawfully and transparent.

Principle 2: Personal data shall be obtained only for the specified and lawful purposes and shall be processed for limited purposes.

Principle 3: Personal data shall be adequate, relevant and not excessive in relation to the purpose for which it is obtained.

Principle 4: Personal data shall be accurate and kept up to date.

Principle 5: Personal data shall not be kept for longer than necessary.

Principle 6: Handled in a way that ensures appropriate security, including protection against unlawful or unauthorised processing, access, loss, destruction or damage.

The GDPR will increase the penalties for transgressions from a maximum of £500k under the previous law to up to £17m or 4 per cent of turnover, whichever is higher. It strengthens existing requirements, and places greater emphasis on demonstrating compliance, as well as introducing a number of new concepts.
Due to the complex nature of the new regime for data protection laws, the BMA cannot offer comprehensive legal advice on GDPR, but rather it help you navigate the legislation and point you in the right direction for guidance on the questions you may have. Register of interests (declarations)

Members are required to complete the register of interests form which will be kept in the secretariat.

What is a conflict of interest?

A conflict of interest can be defined as a ‘set of circumstances that creates a risk that an individual’s ability to apply objective judgement or act in one role is, or could be, impaired or influenced by a secondary interest.’ (National Audit Office “Conflicts of interest”, 27 January 2015).

Conflicts of interests occur where a person acting in a representative capacity (in this case, elected and appointed members, BMA directors and representatives1 (hereafter referred to in the collective ‘member/s’), could be unfairly influenced by financial or other commitments into failing to represent his or her constituency adequately, or adequately discharge their responsibilities in their appointed or elected position.

It is appropriate, therefore, that there is openness and transparency about other commitments that Members may hold. By ensuring that any potential conflicts of interest are disclosed and known to others, they are less likely to influence debates/votes in meetings etc.
The information provided by Members will be processed as defined by the General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/279. Data will be processed only for the purposes set out in this policy and not for any other purpose.

What type of information should I declare?

All Members must complete and return to the committee secretary a ‘Declaration of Interest’ form as soon as possible. Members will be responsible for notifying any changes in their registrable interests within fourteen (14) days of the change occurring to ensure that the record is kept updated.

Some guidance on the type of information which Members should consider declaring as potential conflicts of interest is set out below. It is important to note that this list is not exhaustive and it is impossible to list every potential situation or circumstance that could give rise to a conflict of interests.

Members should therefore use their judgment to decide whether any of their interests should be disclosed.

- Directorships and committee appointments: Both paid and unpaid directorships (including non-executive directors or senior employees) of any public or private company or other body, together with any roles or positions with other committees.
- Alternative trade union membership external to the BMA: any membership of another trade union must be disclosed.
- Other remunerated work: Any paid employment or other sources of income outside their normal medical work. Examples might be paid consultancy or advisory positions with government departments, pharmaceutical companies or the medical press, articles sold to the paramedical press, or remunerated speaking engagements. Also included should be work for companies active in other healthcare fields, NHS Trusts, health authorities, any NHS commissioning body or health boards and endorsements or appointments which could be used by other organisations for marketing purposes.
- Gifts, benefits and hospitality: This includes any substantial gift or material advantage received by a member which in any way relates to his/her membership of BMA committees. This would include trips or visits arising out of membership, where the cost has not been wholly borne by the member or the BMA. Gifts of less than £500 in value and other benefits of less than £500 in value would be exempt, as would events to which all members are invited.

– Shareholdings or other positions:
Declaration of the name of any public or private company (including any not-for-profit), business, partnership or consultancy active in the field of healthcare or certain other sectors where a conflict of interest might arise (eg retail financial services, STM (scientific, technical and medical) publishing) in which the member holds significant shareholdings, interests or control. Significant in the context of shareholdings is defined as either (a) greater than 1 per cent of the issued share capital of the company or body, or (b) less than 1 per cent of the issued share capital but more than £25,000.

– Indirect social/business relationships and family interests:
These would include any close association with an individual who has a financial interest, a non-financial professional interest or a non-financial personal interest (and any other interests) of close family members/friends/business partners that might be considered relevant to an individual’s position as a member of any BMA committee.

– Appointments which could lead to a commercial conflict of interests.

– Potential conflicts arising from the possession of confidential information.

– Miscellaneous and unremunerated interests:
This includes other interests which do not fall clearly within any of the above categories, for example, membership of societies such as the Freemasons or of other organisations. Membership of, or work for, other bodies such as charities or trusts which could possibly influence a member’s position with regard to his/her BMA associated activities should also be included, as well as membership of UK Governments or Department of Health committees/working groups (or their equivalents in Scotland, Wales or Northern Ireland) on which the member is not a designated BMA representative.

* Representatives include: non-members who are elected, observers, visitors and lay members.
Senior elected positions
There is also a procedure to assess declared conflicts at the nomination stage for senior elected positions (chairs, deputy-chairs, officers and executives).

The procedure to determine whether a perceived or actual conflict of interest exists at the application stage of senior elected positions is as follows:

Declaration
Two questions will be added to the nomination forms for elections (paper or electronic via the online elections system) to allow individuals to declare any conflicts of interest.

The committee chair and secretariat will consider the declaration and decide whether an actual or potential conflict exists. If the chair and secretariat consider that any matter needs further exploration, they will refer it to the Corporate Development Directorate for consideration by an independent conflicts of interest assessment group.

Members are recommended to read the complete BMA conflicts of interest policy.

Key committee dates
How the committee meets, dates of meetings, conferences and apologies for absence

The Patient liaison group meets on three formal occasions each year although members may also contribute to steering groups or working parties established by the secretariat to deal with specific areas of work and projects.

The meetings of the PLG for the session will be held on:

- Wednesday 11 September 2019
- Friday 31 January 2020
- Friday 7 February 2020 Symposium
- Monday 11 May 2020 – Manchester

All meetings except for Monday 11 May 2020 are held at BMA House and will commence at 11am, with an approximate finish of 4pm.
Apologies for absence

It is very important that you advise the secretariat in advance if you are unable to attend a meeting.

See below for contact details. In line with council byelaws, if any elected or appointed member of the PLG is absent from three successive committee meetings, that member shall (except in cases of illness or for some reason approved by the chair of PLG) be deemed to have resigned their membership, and a casual vacancy arise.

Role of the committee secretariat

Committee services provides support for all the committees and conferences for which the policy directorate is responsible, including all the branch of practice committees and a wide range of other committees from medical managers to the patient liaison group.

Senior policy advisors (SPAs) work directly with the committees and their chairs providing high level support, maintaining an overview of the committee’s work and taking forward policy work not covered elsewhere. Your Senior policy advisor is responsible for:

- helping you develop your work plans, working with policy colleagues to ensure that these plans fit with BMA policy priorities
- commissioning work to support those priorities
- making sure that you have the opportunity to contribute to relevant policy development and
- preparing for meetings making sure that they are effective, run smoothly and that agreed actions are progressed
Our committee support team undertake all the associated committee administration, for example preparing agendas and action notes, diary management, room bookings and maintaining committee list-servers.

We also have an Equality, Inclusion and Culture team which partly works with our team and partly with professionalism and guidance. Within the committee services function, the purpose of the equality, inclusion and culture team is to ensure that the BMA’s democratic structures are transparent, fair and increasingly reflective of equality and inclusion principles.

How to claim expenses

Expenses
You are eligible to claim expenses incurred when attending committee meetings. This includes costs of travel, subsistence and accommodation. Payments are made directly into your bank or building society accounts.

We have a web-based expenses system called Concur, which replaces committee expense claim forms. The website can be used on all current web browsers and is also available on most smart phones and tablet devices. If you have any queries regarding Concur please contact John O’Connor on 020 7383 6458.

We do not provide mobile telephones or land lines, but if you incur significant call costs on BMA business, you can submit a copy of your itemised phone bill highlighting the costs incurred on our behalf of and we will reimburse you.

Please contact Hope Mears (hmears@bma.org.uk or 020 7383 6651) to get approval for expenses for other committee related activities, such as attendance at conferences or stakeholder meetings. You can find more information about how to claim expenses on our website.

Concur and logging in to the BMA website as a non member

BMA members can access a member’s area of the website which is also open to non BMA members who are committee members. To access it, you need to create a guest account via this weblink: https://join.bma.org.uk/limitedaccessregistration/limitedaccess

Once you have set up a guest account with the BMA website, you will be able to submit a request for a Concur expense account to be created for you. This usually takes a day or so. Details of how Concur works with a link for making an application are given here: bma.org.uk/about-the-bma/how-we-work/concur training-committee
Preferential hotel rates
We have negotiated special discounts at hotels near regional headquarters in London, Scotland and Northern Ireland for use by BMA members, BMA and BMJ staff. You can see the list of hotels available for each region and details on how to book on the BMA website.

BMA listserver guidance and terms and conditions of use
Each BMA committee has a listserver, an email function that distributes an email to each contact registered with it.

As a member of the listserver, you must observe agreed guidance for the use of listservers and other means of electronic communications, as set out in the BMA email guidelines, BMA technology terms and conditions and GDPR guidelines. These policies form part of the code of conduct.

The code of conduct provides guidance on expected behaviour and sets out the standards of conduct that support our values in the work that we do. We are a trade union governed by company law and trade union law. Our code applies to all members of the BMA and members of committees/groups. Members must conduct themselves so as to promote the success of the BMA and maintain the individual and collective reputation of the Association and its members. They must also, at all times, comply with relevant trade union laws. This code of conduct incorporates and supersedes existing BMA council and board approved codes of conduct.
The code ensures that there is parity between staff and members, with each being held to an equitable standard of conduct. Every BMA member is bound by this code of conduct when conducting BMA Business.

Examples of what is appropriate to use the listserver for, include circulating documents or drafts for comments, while inappropriate use would include complaints about services to members or the actions of BMA departments. In cases where the listserver is judged to have been used inappropriately the committee chair has the right to remove access to the listserver.

*“Member” includes all BMA members, BMA directors and representatives, observers, visitors and lay members on BMA committees/councils/boards/groups.

Key policies

Dignity at work policy
We try to ensure that all members of staff have a safe, healthy and fair working environment. We do not tolerate bullying or harassment of any kind. Bullying may be characterised as offensive, intimidating, malicious or insulting behaviour, an abuse or misuse of power through means intended to undermine, humiliate, unfairly criticise or injure the recipient. Harassment includes unwanted conduct related to a protected characteristic, conduct of a sexual nature, or less favourable treatment for rejecting or submitting to unwanted conduct. You can read further details online, including what to do if a complaint is made against you and contact details for confidential support.

Defamation statement
The BMA requires all its committees to be issued with a statement on defamation at the first meeting of each political session and similar statements are provided to members of its Annual representative meeting each year.
An individual making a public statement on behalf of the BMA and its committees needs to be aware of the potential pitfalls of the law of defamation. In general, a defamatory statement is one which “tends to lower an individual’s reputation in the eyes of right thinking members of society, or which would cause him to be shunned or bring him into hatred, ridicule or contempt, or which tends to discredit him in his profession or trade.”

There are two forms of defamation – libel and slander. Libel is the publication in permanent form of a defamatory statement. Slander is its publication in transitory form. So, to give examples, typically slander is spoken unrecorded word, whereas libel includes the written form such as hard copy or electronic communications, but also spoken words that are recorded, for instance in video form, or even in a voice recording such as potentially on a voicemail. An individual can bring proceedings for libel in the absence of any proof of loss. Proceedings for slander, however, can only generally be brought if loss can be shown although there are limited exceptions such as the slander of an individual in his profession.

There are a number of defences to a claim of defamation these include:-

(a) truth – being able to show that what was said is true or substantially true;
(b) honest opinion – a statement of genuinely-held opinion on a stated factual basis;
(c) public interest defence – a defendant can avoid liability if the truth of a statement cannot be proved but if it can be established that publication was responsible and in the public interest;
(d) qualified privilege – a partial defence where the defendant can prove that the publication was in the public interest (there are two forms of qualified privilege – statutory and common law); and
(e) absolute privilege – a complete defence applying to statements made in certain situations e.g. in Parliament, between solicitor and client, statements to the police in a criminal investigation.

An action for defamation can only be brought in the High Court. Legal aid is not available and proceedings are notoriously expensive.
Where it is necessary to mention individuals or organisations, great care should be taken to ensure that no gratuitous or unsustainable comment is made, this being so whether the discussion is on or off the record. Great care must also be taken to ensure that where an issue regarding an individual or organisation is the subject of rumour, it is not given weight or authority by being publicised by the BMA to the detriment of that individual or organisation’s reputation. Similarly unsubstantiated comment should not be made about individuals and organisations.

Internet Postings

There is a common misconception that because of the informal and accessible nature of the Internet, different rules apply. The position is, quite simply, that the author of material posted over the Internet is every bit as liable in defamation as the author of off-line material.

Publication of defamatory material takes place once it has been posted on the Internet. It is not necessary for an aggrieved person to prove that anyone has actually read the material. There is the added danger that the material can be accessed anywhere in the world enabling anybody who is aggrieved to sue in that country as well as here.

Website hosts may also be liable, along with the author, for publishing defamatory material if they have been made aware of its presence on a website and have failed to remove it within a reasonable period of time. People who hide behind anonymous postings will find that the website hosts can be required to disclose the identity of the author. If in doubt the BMA’s Legal Department or other professional lawyers should be contacted for advice.

Electronic Communications

Under the current Data Protection Act 1998 (DPA), which has been replaced by the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) and the UK Data Protection Act 2018 (DPA 2018), data subjects are entitled to request the disclosure of information held on them by the BMA. The DPA, GDPR and DPA 2018 extends not only to electronic files (including external and internal email correspondence and including activity tracking) but to manual files as well. Subject to exemptions, the BMA is legally obliged to provide the information requested. To avoid the risk of a claim for defamation, it is extremely important that all recorded information relating to individuals is accurately and properly expressed. Anything which could be regarded as offensive, insulting and defamatory must be avoided unless approved by the BMA’s Legal Department or other professional lawyers.

The best practical advice is that any reference to an individual or an organisation should be made in measured terms after a careful appraisal of the evidence available with legal advice being sought where appropriate. If this advice is followed there should be no difficulties with respect to defamation.

Anti-corruption and anti-bribery policy

We take a zero-tolerance approach to bribery and corruption, and do not make or accept facilitation payments, also known as ‘kickbacks’, of any kind in return for a business advantage. Corruption is dishonest and fraudulent conduct, which often involves bribery. Bribery is the inducement or reward offered, promised or provided in order to gain any commercial, contractual, regulatory or personal advantage.

Time off for trade union duties and activities

Employees who are representatives of a recognised trade union have the legal right to be permitted a reasonable amount of paid time off work to enable them to carry out trade union duties. The code of practice for trade union duties is different in Northern Ireland than the rest of the UK. Further details, including a list of key documents that you may need to secure paid time off work, are available online. Whistleblowing guidance
Whistleblowing is a term applied to a situation where an employee, former employee or member of an organisation raises concerns to people who have the power and presumed willingness to take corrective action. You are protected in law from harassment and bullying when you raise a concern, and we can support you in addition to local support structures. A more detailed guide to whistleblowing, including case studies, is available online. (https://www.bma.org.uk/advice/employment/raising-concerns/guide-to-raising-concerns)

Equal opportunities policy
We are committed to equality in the provision of services to our members and stakeholders. This ensures that all members, those applying for membership, and other service users will receive the highest possible standards of service from us, irrespective of race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, marital status, civil partnership status, age, disability, chronic illness, religion or belief. You can read further details on our equal opportunities policy online. (https://www.bma.org.uk/about-us/equality-diversity-and-inclusion)

Co-chair guidelines
Co-chairing of committees can be an effective way of sharing a heavy workload and harnessing the strengths and expertise of two people. In the event of a co-chairship both chairs should only attend committee meetings and negotiation meetings of the committee they are chairing. Attendance at other committees, external meetings and conferences, both internal and external, should be shared unless they are sufficiently important to merit both chairs. You can read more detailed guidance on co-chairship online.
