

Chapter 14 Research and innovative treatment

Contents

- Specialist bodies providing ethical review (page 611)
- Human Tissue Legislation (page 615)
- Embryonic stem cell research (page 619)
- Gene therapy (page 621)

Specialist bodies providing ethical review (page 611)

Human Tissue Legislation (page 615)

Embryonic stem cell research (page 619)

Gene therapy (page 621)

LATEST!

On 25 January 2013 the Government announced that, following a consultation exercise, it did not intend to proceed with its plan to abolish the Human Tissue Authority and the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority. The Government's response to the consultation can be found at: <https://www.wp.dh.gov.uk/publications/files/2013/01/Government-Response.pdf> (accessed 8 February 2013).

From 30 November 2012 GTAC ceased to exist and its responsibilities were transferred to the Health Research Authority. For more information see: <http://www.hra.nhs.uk/hra-news-and-announcements/new-arrangements-for-the-gene-therapy-advisory-committee/> (accessed 8 February 2013).
